THE PRESIDENT SHOT BY AN ANARCHIST.

Leon Czolgosz, Who in a Confession Said He is a Cleveland Anarchist, While Shaking Hands With the President at the Pan American Exposition, Shot Him Twice. Anarchist Has Been Arrested. He Says, "I Did My Duty."

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 6 .--- President McKinley was shot this afternoon in front of the Temple of Music, on the exposition grounds, by a man named Czolgosz. The man was shaking hands with the President when he fired two bullets at him from a revolver, which he had hidden under a handkerchief.

THE WOUNDS ARE VERY SERIOUS.

When the President was shot he fell into the arms of Detective Gerry, whom he coolly soles to Milburn House, Sept. 14.--The President died at 2:15 a.m. Those present at the time of the President's death were Secy. Cortelyou, Dr. Rixey, Mrs. and Miss Barber and Miss Duncan.

ANNOUNCEMENT AT WASHINGTON.

Washington, Sept. 14---The official announcement was received at the White House at 2:35 and is as follows:

Buffalo, Sept. 14--"Col. Montgomery, Executive Mansion, Washington.

The President died at a quarter past two o'clock this morning.

Signed, GEORGE B. CORTELYOU."

THE LAST SCENES.

Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 14 .-President McKinley died at 2:15 a. m. He had been unconscious since 7:50 p. m. His last conscious hour on earth was spent with the wife to whom he devoted a life time of care. He died unattended by a minister of the gospel, but his last words were an humble submission to the will of God in whom he believed. He was reconciled to the cruel fate to which an assassin's bullet had condemned him and faced death in the same spirit of calmness and poise which has marked his long and honorable career. His last conscious words reduced to writing by Dr. Mann, who stood at his bedside, when they were uttered was as follows: "Good bye. All good bye. It is God's way. His will be done."

His relatives, and the members of his ordicial family were at the Milburn house, except Secretary Wilson is God's way. His will be done."

Then his mind began to wander and soon afterward he completely lost consciousness. His life was prolonged for hours by the administration of oxygen and the President finally expressed a desire to be allowed to die. About 8:30 the administration of oxygen ceased and the pulse grew fainter and fainter. He was sinking gradually like a child into the eternal slumber. By 10 o'clock the pulse could no longer be felt in his extremeties and they grew cold. Below stairs the grief stricken gathering waited sadly for the end.

All the evening those who had hastened here fast as steel and steam could carry them, continued to arrive. They drove up in carriages at a gallop or were whisked up in automobiles, all intent upon getting here before death ensued. One of the last to arrive was Attorney General Knox who reached the house at 9:30. He was permitted to go up stairs to look change in the executive administration of the government would ensue. When Mr. Roosevelt would take the oath of office was wholly a matter of conjecture.

President Arthur took the oath at 2 a. m. after the death of Garfield and in that case Justice Brady, of New York, administered the oath. There is no requirement that the oath shall be administered by a justice of of the United States supreme court, although that procedure is adopted when circumstances apernit.

Without unseemly haste the members of the cabinet will tender their resignation and the new President will then be free to initiate his own policy and choose his own cabinet.

Awaiting the End Since 9:40.
Milburn House, Buffalo, Sept. 13.—
The President is slowly dying. Secretary Cortelyoù sent this announcement from the house at 9:30 tonight.
At the same time, Dr. Mynter, who had just come from the sick room.

are now cold with the approach of was recognized that nothing remain-

The last sad offices about the bedside have ben sald and the President has again lapsed into unconsciousness, after a brief period of consciousness. During his conscious moments Mrs. McKinley was brought into the chamber and there was an affecting farewell. Members of the cabinet, one by one, saw the President momentarily and there was a hushed exchanged. Then the Presidently softly chanted a hymn. Just before he lapsed into unconsciousness he begged the doctors to let him die.

At 9:40 every on e within the house and in the great crowd outside is awaiting the announcement of the

Mr. Roosevelt Too Late.

There is little possibility tonight that Mr. Roosevelt will get here. Mr. Ansley Wilcox who entertained the vice president when he was here last said that the best information he had was recognized that nothing remained but the last struggle, and some of the friends of the family who had remained through the day, began to leave the house, not caring to be present at the final scene.

Such an intense state of anxiety, existed among the watchers that rumors gained frequent circulation that death had already occurred. The arrival of the coroner gave rise to one such rumor and a flood of ground less despatches were sent saying that the end had come. These were speedily set at rest by an official within the house. He stated that the reports were groundless. Dr. Mann said that the President was still alive and that Dr. Janeway was examining the heart action. There was really no hope but they did not desire gruesome anticipation.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 2, 1788. [Price, Six-pence,

THE following petition is now circulating through this state_numbers of them have already been handed into the honorable the allembly-You are defired to publish it for the satisfaction of those who have not as yet had an opportunity of feeing them.

To the Honorable the Reprefentatives of the Freemen of the Commonwealth of Pennfylvania, in General Assembly met.

The Petition of the Subscribers, in behalf of themselves and o-thers, Citizens of Pennsylvania, Most respectfully Sheweth,

HAT, in consequence of the great stagnation of trade, theweak flate of public, and almost total annihilation of private credit, the pressure of taxes, and the extreme scarcity of circulating specie, which have taken place in this country fince the revolution, real estates, as well as many other kinds of property, have greatly fallen in price; infornuch, that even houses and improved lands are daily fold, at theriffs' and other public fales from one half to the fifth part of their value.

That, by these unforeseen and unavoidable calamities, great-numbers of the good people of this commonwealth, who had necessarily contracted debts, and entered into contracts, which they then conceived themselves fully able to pay and perform, without distressing themselves and families, are now involved difficulties and embarrassments, which no human forefight could have prevented, and from which no industry or means within their own power, can extricate

That, in many instances, these debts (fome of which were oc-casioned by a reliance on the public faith, and others contracted by persons in the service of their country) might have been dicharged in a depreciated currency, had the debtors chosen to avail themselves of tenderlawsthen existing but principles of honor restrained them from taking those advantages of their creditors, which, as private in-dividuals, they deemed inequit-able, notwirhstanding the pubhe councils of this country then thought it proper to give them
the fanction of law.
Your petitioners apprehend

it is almost unnecessary to inform your honorable house, that the cyils now experienced by thouon, at an appraisement made on, at an appraisement made of good citizens in this flate, arifing from the causes already mentioned, are not of a partial nor unimportant nature; they appeal to your own knowledge and to the public prints for the ltruth of the contrary: the diffress flowing from those sources are of a serious and alarming tendency, extensive in their opperation; and, unless some remedy be speedily administered, a dredful catastrophe must terminate the

and the second s

Your petitioners beg leave to observe, that in their humble opinion, it becomes the duty of a wife and good government to extend its aid and protestion, by special means, to its useful and virtuous citizens, in those cases where large bodies of men of that description experience calamities from causes over, which they have no controul-They conceive that, under circumstances of general distress, laws operating against the in-nocent objects of such distress should, on principals of sound policy and national justice, affume a milder tone: And, on these principles, they cannot suppose a merciles, rapacious creditor, should be permitted, in the prefent situation of this country, to facrifice the property of his debtor, by a public sale—whereby the latter may not only be reduced from a state of competency to beggary, and his family hurled into the depths of milery-but, by being thus de-prived of the hard earnings of his industry, rendered incapable of discharging debts due to other and more humane creditors

Your petitioners are humbly, of opinion, that a law would be competent to their relief, as well as conform to fubflantial justice, whereby sheriffs would be directed, in every case where they shall have levied on real or personal property, to have the same valued or appraised by a jury of twelve men; and that the creditors shall either receive the same at the appreisement: or that further execution shall be stayed thereon for the term of years, provided the debt-or will give fufficient fecurity for the payment of interest an-nually, and the principal at the expiration of the term: But, where lands and tenements, taken in execution, will fatisfy the debt and cofts in feven years, the law to remain as at prefent.

Your petitioners beg leave to observe further that, by a law of Pennfylvania, passed in the year 1700, entitled, "An act for the appraisement of goods," a creditor was compellable to accept goods and charrels levied and chattels, under the writ of mend it to get out of a florm, Elegit:—By this process, also, though that florm were to only one half of a man's lands | threaten a deluge; but shew can be taken in execution for the payment of a debt; which meiety is delivered to the plantiff, to hold, till out of the rents and profits thereof, the debt be levied—And the writ of fierifaccias operates, in England, only against goods and chattels. It must be evident to your honorable house, that the grievances complained of by your petitioners, are of fuch a nature, as to require an immediate re-

Your petitioners, therefore, earnestly entreat your honorable house to take the premises into your most ferious consideration; and to administer to them such speedy and effectual relief therein, as to you, in your clemency and wifdom, shall seem meet. And your petitioners, as in duty bound; will ever pray, &c.

Portrait of the Bachelor and the Married Man contracted.

A Bachelor is a fort of whim-fica being, which nature never intended to create. He was formed out of the odds and ends of what materials were left after the great work was over. Unluckily for him, the finer paffions are all mixed up in the composition of those creatures intended for f cial enjoyment. what remains for the Bachelor is hardly enough to rub round A C R UST Y MOULD into which he is thrown. Some feasoning, that he may not be quite insipid, must be substitured in the stead of more valuable ingredients; fo in dame nature toffes felf-love without weight or measure, a kind of understanding that is fit for no other use; a sprinkling of wildow, which turns acid from the four disposition of the vessel in which it is contained; and the whole composition is concluded with an immoderate portion of odities. Thus formed, thus fi-nished, a Bachelor is popt into the world !- Mere lumber withthe world!—Mere lumber wind-cut the possibility of being hap-py himself, or essentially con-tributing to the happiness of others. His only buliness is to keep himself quiet. He gets up to lie down, and lies down to get up. No tender impres-sions enliven his waken hours; no agreeabled reveries difturb his dronish slumbers. If he ever speaks the languege of fenfibility, he speaks it on the ex-cellence of some sayourite dish, or on the choice liquors with which his cellars abound. On fuch subjects he feels the rap-tures of a lover. As for the pace of a Bachelor, he would have threaten a deluge ; but fhew him a woman who is entirled to the compliment of his hat, and he will thuffle on, as if he were walking for a wager. His housekeeper, or his laundress, he can talk to her without re-ferve: but any other of the fex, whose condition is above an useful dependant, is his ter-ror. A bear house is his sanctum fanctorum against bright eyes and dazling complexions ; here he lounges out half his days. At home he fits alone to his unfocial meals, and when his pession is pleased, he has no other pattion to gratify. Such is a Bachelor; Such is the life of a Bachelor! What be-comes of him after death; I am not casuit enough to deter-

Now for a MARRIED MAN. The felicity of a married man never stand still, it perpetually flows, and increases in its palfage. It is supplied from various channels; it depends more on others than on himself. From participation proceed the most extatic enjoyments of the married man.

By an union with the gentlest, most polished, most beautiful part of the creation, his mind is harmonized, his manners foftened, his foul animated by the tendereft, livelieft featiments. Love, gratude, and univerfal benevolence, mix in all his ideas. The house of a married min is his paradife. He never leaves it without regret; never returns to it but with gladness. The friend of his foul, the wife of his bolom, welcomes hisap-proach with sufceptibility; joy flushes her cheeks, and mutual are their transports. Infants, lovely as the Ipring, climb about his knees, and contend which shall catch the envied kiss of paternal fondness. Smiling plenty, under the guardianship of econemy, is seen in every department of his samily—Generofity flands porter at his dooronly hands prefet at his table; and focial mirth gives to time its most pleasing motion. To the existence of a married man there is no termination. When death overtakes him, he is only translated from one Fleaven to another; his glory is immortalized, and his children's children reperfent him on earth to the latelt generation.

Dear General,
As a committee appointed by the burgess and council of Marietta, Lancaster county, we as their organ express the feeling of joy, which reigns in the bosons of its inhabitants, and surrounding country, by your arrival in the United States, to view your fellow men, enjoying Ilberty under, a republic, which you assisted, to found by your valoryour treasure—your blood.

The statesmen and herress of those days now are few, and we as freemen, conscious of the blessings we enjoy, through the instrumentality of Pravidence, hall your arrival with a feeling—language cannot express.

Our fathers have told us—and the Historian has recorded the feats of valour—the sufferings—the privation of the handfull of Spartans who acomplished our independence.

For this great boon, as a nation we invited you to visit the United States, and view the wast improvement we have made—the happy influences arising from a liberal form of government and to wipe away forever the foul stigan at that republies are ungraleful.

It is the wish and—ardent desire of the citizens of Marietta and interior in express their feelings, and they request that you will honour us with a visit, and enable us in common with our fellow men to express our gratifude for the liberties which we now enjoy, and embrace in our arms our veteran chief.

Saturdary Night Market.

Saturdary Night Market.

The York City Market was as usual well attended on Saturdary evening. There was been plenty of every thing, good and cheap, Butter 20 eta. a poundy eggs, 11 eta, a doarn; peas, 50 eta. per peci; strawberries, two boxes for a quarter; asparagas, 10 eta, two boxes for a punture, and all other things were selling proportionally low.

The Saturdary upith market, in our town, is well patronized and appears to be a decided success.

Secured the Court House.

The York County commissioners between County commissioners Reserved by grained the ass of the Court House, to the order of Knights of Pythins, who will hold their annual State meeting in this place, August next. It is expected that there will be at least five hundred strangers—nembers of the order—present of the Court House, for the Court House, for the Order of the Court House, for the purpose stated, and the favor is fully appreciated by all interested.

Rebel Emigration to Brazil. The New Orleans Picayune makes the fol-

The New Orleans Picayune makes the following statement:

"We understand that a number of the most prominent Generals and Engineers of the Confederate armies, for the moment upcasy, or apprehensive for the future, of the confederate armies, for the moment upcasy, or apprehensive for the future, of the following the properties and a more independent home and better employment for their skill and taloft. We also learn that the same movement is contemplated by officers and engineers of the Confederate navy, with whom personally equainted as they are, with the Brazilian shores, the idea probably originated.

"It is likewise said that many of the rank and file, both of the army and navy apprehension, and following the example of their leaders, are preparing to emigrate to the ment, and following the example of their leaders, are preparing to enigrate to the Valley of the Amazon. This is properly disconnenanced by the leaders, in the heat interest of their followers, as ill-judged and erry way nursie. Indeed we cannot see how it is possible for many of them who have families, or even those who have not, to raise the necessary means for such emigration. It would probably cost $51,000 for even a small family to go to the Brazilian shores and support themselves six months, a year, or whatever length of time it might take to find or establish themselves in their new homes, if ever found; for it is the experience of all mankind that the life of an exile, whether voluntary or involuntary, is that of a discontented wanderer.

"Some of the officers, we understand, are the more apprehensive for the future, because of the fact that before secession they belonged to the United States army, or were in service under the Government. It is doubtless true that such persons, if they desired it, would not be permitted to go back to their old places and employment. They cannot, therefore, avail themselves of the generous permission of General Orders, given to the mass of the Confederate army, to resume their former avocations in life,"

BO'North Adams is known as a pleasant village in the Berkshire section of Massachusetts. A few days since a mysterious gentleman, a stranger, engaged board at the village hotel. He desired that no person would speak to him except the landlord. He was good-looking and well dressed. Several ladies endeavored to make his acquaintance, but failed. Finally bolder ones appointed a committee of five to visit him. He eyed them and replied, "I am a stranger and a criminal. I was convicted in New York of a heavy crime. The judge sentenced me eight years in Sing Sing or to live in North Adams six months; I chose the latter." The ladies retired, and the stranger was not again disturbed.

deterring you, and efforts have been made to disuade from belief that any considerable rebel force is in your vicinity, and many of our loyal citizens have been thus deceived. Similar efforts were successfully made last year at the moment when Lee's army was actually on your border. Dispatches have been received this morning establishing the fact that Gen. Wallace, with ten thousand men, was yesterday compelled to fall back on Frederick. He is believed to be in retreat towards Baltimore.

The communication between this point and Baltimore was cut this morning by the Rebels, below Cockeysville.

The authorities of the United States at Washington are so impressed with the necessity of immediate effort that they have this morning by telegraph authorized men to be mustered in by companies, which they had yesterday peremptorily refused. It is my duty to state to you the fact that your country requires your immediate service, and the safety of your own soil and of our good neighbors in Maryland may depend on your promptness. Recollect that the mode of enlisting men is at the discretion of the Government and that it is the duty of all to obey its requisitions.

YORK, PENN'A: TUESDAY, JUNE 30, 1863.

The Invasion---Occupation of York by the Enemy.

News of the advance of the forces of the enemy upon York, reached this place on Friday last, and although it was believed to be only a cavalry raid, on Saturday it was discovered by a Union scout that the force was large, numbering some ten thousand. Mr. Arthur Farqubar, a citizen of this place, entered their lines some distance from town and obtained permission to inform the citizens of York of their approach, on the condition that he should return to their command and inform them whether or not our forces would make any resistance to the occupation of this place. A meeting of the Safety Committee was called, and it was then determined, on account of the strong force of the enemy, to make no resistance; and Chief Burgess Small and George Hay, Thomas White, and W. Latimer Small, members of the Committee, accompanied by Mr. Farquhar, went out to most the advance to inform them of the decision of the Committee, and ask the protection of the private property and unarmed citi-

They met General Gordon, of Early's division, and informed him that having no sufficient force to resist their advance they were authorized to ask that no injury be done the citizens, in their persons of private property. General Gordon heard their request and assured them that no injury should be done to cither.

On Sunday morning about ten o'clock three columns, the centre through Main street. Gordon's brigade passed through town and encamped on the turnpike about two miles east of town. General Early next arrived with another brigade of his division, and after an interview with the Chief Burgers took possession of the Fair Ground and Government Hospital. Thither the forces were stationed with their Artillery, consisting, of some fourteen pieces, together with their infantry, mounted riflemen, cavalry, &c. Head-Quarters were established in the Court House, Gen. Early occupying the Sher-iff's office, the Provost Marshal the Register's office, and other members of the Staff of the General commanding, other and every effort was made to fill the requisition. Upon the representation of the Committee appointed to see to the obtaining of the required articles, that they had done the best in their power to do, General Early signified his satisfaction and agreed to accept their offer.

On Sunday afternoon Gordon's Bri-gade reached Wrightsville and after a slight skirmish in which two of Bell's Adams county cavalry are supposed to have been taken prisoners, our forces consisting of several regiments of New York and Pennsylvania militia fell back aeross the Susquehanna, destroying the bridge in their rear by fire. The fire was tinctly seen from town. No property was burnt at Wrightsville, except Moore's foundry and some frame buildings attachwhich took fire from the burning bridge. No property was burned at Co lumbia. The rebel cavalry dismounted and used their muskets and rifles.

Sunday the bridges on the Nor thern Central Railway north to near Harrisburg and south to below Hanover Junetion were burned by the enemy's forces We are also informed that some bridges on the Wrightsville Rail Road were burned, and the large bridge over the Canewago on the Harrisburg turnpike. Lust evening General Early visited the Rail Road property and machine shops in this borough, in company with the Chief Burgess and other citizens, to see what should be destroyed, but upon their urgent request abstained from burning them because their destruction would have endangered the safety of the town.

Beyond the destruction of the switches, portions of the track and of the telegraph, and some company cars yet remaining here, no public property, as Several cars, the property of citizens, were not disturbed. Last evening Gordon's Brigade returned through town and encamped several miles from the borough on the Carlisle road. This morning the other Brigades followed westward, with their artillery and munitions. The town is now no longer occupied by the enemy in force, but a few pickets and scouts are passing through town as we write and they are no doubt yet in the surrounding country. Let us hope that they are on the retreat, and that the invasion of our fair State by the enomy may soon be at an end and never again be repeated.

We have no news from the outside world being completely cut off, from all sources of intelligence. There are rumore which we shall not now repeat for the want of reliability.

While the enemy was in occupation of the town the citizens were left free to pass through the streets from place to place, though passes were required to get out of town. Many borses and cattle were taken and the losses of our farmers are heavy, though during the whole of the latter part of last week large droves with wagons were passing through, across the river. In several cuses the horses were returned on identification and demand of the owners. Guards were placed at the Hotels, Stores, &c., and the town was kept comparatively quiet, the soldiers being under very strict discipline. Places of business were generally closed, though and articles were purchased, the soldiers and officers paying for them in Confeder-

A meeting of the citizens was called atemoney. Sofar as we are informed their promise to respect the rights of person and property were kept.

The time the enemy remained here in force was nearly two days, and long weary days they were, rendered more dark by the gloomy weather which prevailed. apprehension, excitement and humiliation at the presence of the enemy, together with the total suppression of business, east a universal gloom over the place, which we pray we may be spared from ever beholding again. But the people submitted with becoming resignation to imperious necessity. What shall yet be cur fate or the fate of our beloved counery must be developed by the future. God grant us a happy deliverance.

The Rebel force in and around the borough of York, consisted of Early's Division, made up of Gordon's, Hoke's, Hayes' and Smith's ("Extra Billy," recently elected Governor of Virginia) Brigades, and numbered about ten thousand men in Cavalry, Artillery and Infantry. Their cannon were part of those captured from Milroy at Winches-ter, and consisted of heavy brass pieces and five inch Parrot rifled guns. Some of these were planted on the hills com-mending the Foreign carly on Sunday

The amount of money received by the Rebels in York on their requisition or demand for $100,000, was about $28,-000. The compliance, in part, of their demand, beyond all doubt, saved the burning of all the shops and buildings of the Railway Company and machine shops where government work is done, the burning of which would have involved the destruction of an immense amount of pribood of these shops.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JULY 1.

The main body of the rebels at last counts were moving rapidly towards Carlisle, where it is said are Ewell's headquarters. It is rumored and with much probability of its truth, that Gen. Pleasanton's eavalry, attached to Hooker's army, are in the neighborhood of Hanover, and which may have caused the rapid movement of the rebels from this neighhorhood towards Carlislo.

Gen. Hooker has been relieved of the command of the Army of the Potomac, and it is now under the temporary command of Gen. Meade, who previously commanded a division of that Army.-Heisspoken of as an able, experienced and gallant officer, who has always had the confidence of his men. The army under his command is said to be in Maryland, moving up on this side of the Potomac.

The Rebels attempted to cross the Susquehanna at Bainbridge, on Sunday, no doubt to burn the bridges on the Pennsylvania railroad, but did not succeed, the ferry not suiting them.

Our troops occupy Harrisburg in great force, and no fears are entertained of its safety. The high hills on this side of the Susquehanna, are strongly and skillfully entrenched and mounted with in many cases were on request opened beavy Artillery, manned by the most experienced cannoniers from the Navy Yard, ut Philadelphia.

ACCIDENT .- On Monday evening Licut. Col. Sickels, of the 20th Pennsylvania Regiment, who was captured and afterwards paroled, met with an accident. while on a hand car, on the Wrightsville rail-road, near York. There were quite a number on the car, when by some means, Col. Sickels was thrown forward, under the car, which passed over his legs fracturing one of them. He is now under medical attendance at the TremontHouse.

As we go to press the town is filled with rumors of skirmishing near Hauover and heavy cannonading in the di-rection of Westminster, but as we cannot trace them to any reliable authority we refrain from publishing them. Among them, however, is one that Hooker's, now Meade's, army, is in Maryland, with its right at Cockeysville and extending in the direction of Hagerstown, and moving towards Chambersburg, Carlisle and Harrisburg. We sincerely hope this rumor may prove true.

The Latest.

A report from what we consider a reliable source has just reached us that a Federal force under Gen. Kilpatrick charged a number of Gen. Stuart's cavalry, in the streets of Hanover yesterday, (Tuesday,) defeating them and taking 250 prisoners. The rebel loss is said to be 25 killed—that of our forces 12 kill-
